
Accessible Dress Code

Policy

June 2010

This accessible policy has been produced to assist the people we support to understand our policy framework within the context and best practice of inclusive communication. This accessible policy is not a substitute for the full policy document and therefore staff and managers must make themselves familiar with the full policy document.

The complete policy statement can be found within the Dress Code Policy document available from the Admin Team at the Consortium Office.

Principles

People express themselves through what they wear

The Consortium thinks that people should not be judged by what they wear

People need to dress according to the job they have

We have to remember we are representing the Consortium

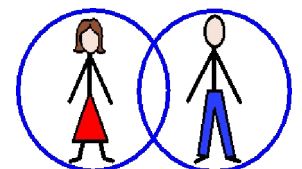

These are some pointers about how to dress, not hard and fast rules

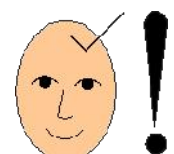

The Law

There will not be different rules for men and women

People can dress according to their religion or beliefs as long as it is safe

People will not be forced to dress in a way that shows their disability or health problem

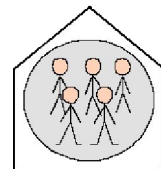

Roles

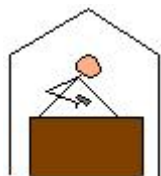

Office-based staff: Can wear what they feel comfortable in but should be right for the job they do

People working with those we support: Should have practical clothes and should not be too bright/loud

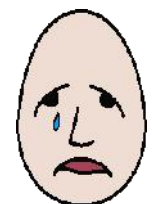

Workshop: Protective clothing will sometimes need to be worn

Unacceptable Clothing

Anything that hurts or upsets someone else

Anything that is too revealing

Anything that is unhygienic

Anything that restricts someone

Be careful of the jewellery that you wear

Monitoring

Line Managers will make sure clothing of staff is appropriate and will tell staff then if it is not
